The screenshot shows a Mozilla Firefox browser window titled "Garuda CA - Mozilla Firefox". The address bar displays "http://192.168.60.21:8080/purse/". The browser's toolbar includes navigation buttons (back, forward, home, stop, refresh) and a search bar with "Google" entered. Below the toolbar, there are several bookmarks: Gmail, C-DACB, RTracker, CTSFWiki, Google, Cricinfo, KAudio, Live365, Design, SBM, and RAC. The main content area of the browser shows the Garuda Grid Certificate Authority website. The page has a green header with the title "Garuda Grid Certificate Authority" and a navigation menu with buttons for "Home", "Request Certificate", "Account Info", "Certificate Info", and "Help". The "Request Certificate" button is highlighted. Below the navigation menu, there is a logo for GARUDA (Garuda Certificate Authority) and a "Welcome" section. The "Welcome" section contains the following text: "Welcome to the Garuda Grid Initiative Certification Authority website. Please read the information below to understand the process of obtaining a certificate. This page also includes information about who is allowed to request a certificate. If you have any further queries please contact." Below this, there are three sections: "Who can have a Certificate?", "Who should apply for a certificate?", and "How long is my certificate valid for?". The "Who can have a Certificate?" section states: "Anyone who is a member of the Garuda Grid community or who is actively involved in Garuda project." The "Who should apply for a certificate?" section states: "You should apply for a certificate if you have not previously owned an Garuda certificate, or if your Garuda certificate has expired or has been revoked. If your certificate is going to expire and you would like to renew it before this time, you are only allowed to apply a maximum of one month before its expiry date." The "How long is my certificate valid for?" section is partially visible. The browser's status bar at the bottom shows "Done".
